

South Atlantic Review SUMMER 2008, VOLUME 73, NUMBER 3

CONTENTS

ESSAYS

“[T]he Ungraspable Phantom of Life”:
Incompletion and Abjection in Moby-Dick and Housekeeping
Laura Barrett

“He Who Forms a Tie Is Lost”: Loyalty, Betrayal, and Deception in The Human Factor
Robert Lance Snyder

Black Girl in Paris: Shay Youngblood’s Escape from “the last plantation”
Suzanne W. Jones

New Americans: Race, Mixture, and Nation in the Work of Jean Toomer and José Vasconcelos
Tru Leverette

“Is there anything else you would like to add?”
Visual Testimony Encounters the Lyric
Leah Wolfson

FOREIGN LANGUAGE ESSAY

Nuevos materiales para el estudio comparativo de la épica: la epopeya vogul de El héroe que se casó con su sobrina
Óscar Abenójar Sanjuán

REVIEW ESSAY

Edith Warton: Things and Visions
Hildegard Hoeller

BOOK REVIEWS

Emmett Till in Literary Memory and Imagination

edited by Harriet Pollack and Christopher Metress

(Julie Buckner Armstrong)

Intricate Relations: Sexual and Economic Desire in American Fiction, 1789-1814, by Karen A. Weyler

(Monika Elbert)

Masculinity, Psychoanalysis, Straight Queer Theory: Essays on Abjection in Literature, Mass Culture, and

Film, by Calvin Thomas

(Ellis Hanson)

Acts of Enjoyment: Rhetoric, jÿÿek, and the Return of the Subject, by Thomas Rickert

(Heather Palmer)

Rigor of Beauty: Essays in Commemoration of William Carlos Williams, edited by Ian D. Copestake

(Marvyn Petrucci)