Dear SAMLAs Members and Conference Guests,

Welcome to SAMLAs 92, the first-ever virtual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association. Despite the numerous challenges that we have faced throughout this uncertain year, it is thanks to your commitment and the foresight and planning of our Executive Committee that this years conference is possible.

I am heartened that this years conference theme, Scandal! Literature and Provocation: Breaking Rules, Making Texts, resonates with the diverse scholarly interests of our members and has found numerous thematic and theoretical iterations in our conference panels and roundtables. I am pleased to report that SAMLAs 92 welcomes over 650 presenters and offers over 180 sessions, featuring seventy sessions in Modern Foreign Languages, sixty-six sessions in American and British literatures, twenty-four sessions in Popular Culture and Media Studies, twenty-one sessions in African and African-American studies, nineteen sessions in Pedagogy, thirty-five sessions in Studies of Gender and Sexuality, seven sessions in Rhetoric and Composition, thirteen sessions in Asian and Asian-American studies, six sessions in Creative Writing, and two sessions in Environmental Studies. SAMLAs commitment to fostering a spirit of mentorship between professors and young scholars continues this year, too, as demonstrated by the thirteen undergraduate research forums (featuring the work of nearly fifty undergraduate scholars) included in this years program.

Each year SAMLAs recognizes the outstanding work of our undergraduate student, graduate student, and faculty members. Please join us for the annual Award Ceremony, scheduled for Saturday, November 14, from 12:30 –1:45 PM EST. This year we will be announcing the recipients of the Graduate Student Creative Writing Award (prose), the Graduate Student Essay Award, the George Mills Harper Graduate Student Travel Fund Awards, the SAMLAs Studies Book Awards, the South Atlantic Review Essay Prize, and the Undergraduate Student Essay Award.

We are honored to welcome our Plenary Speaker, Dr. Gerald Prince, Professor of Romance Languages at The University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Prince, renowned scholar of French literature and narratology, will be speaking on Saturday, November 14, from 7:15–8:45 PM EST.

I also encourage you to stop by our exhibitors virtual booths where you will have the chance to meet with representatives from Scholar’s Choice, Clemson University Press, University Press of Florida, University Press of Mississippi, University of North Georgia Press, University of South Carolina Press, Bucknell University Press, Rutgers University Press, and McFarland.

Finally, I am grateful to the guidance and superb planning of our Executive Committee. Associate Director Dr. Dan Abitz had the presence of mind to suggest moving our conference online at a time when many parts of the country were relaxing travel restrictions and other Covid-19 regulations. Dr. Abitz has worked tirelessly alongside outgoing Executive Director Dr. Elizabeth West, our new Executive Director Dr. LeeAnne Richardson, our Conference Manager Esther Stuart, our Production and Design
Manager Donna Pennington, and the talented staff of graduate assistants from the English Department of Georgia State University. I also thank Dr. R. Barton Palmer, editor extraordinaire of The South Atlantic Review, as well as the editorial staff for continued excellence maintaining our Association’s journal.

Although we will not have the opportunity to mingle over coffee or enjoy a meal together in person this year, I am certain that our online platform will allow you to renew your connections with each other, meet new colleagues, and continue the robust scholarly conversations that we have shared at past conferences.

Welcome to SAMLA 92!

Adrienne Angelo
Auburn University

Welcome from the Executive Director

Dear SAMLA Members and Friends,

Welcome to SAMLA 92: Scandal! Literature and Provocation: Breaking Rules, Making Texts. Kudos to SAMLA President Adrienne Angelo for proposing this apt topic. Our lives have been upended by catastrophic events, both human-made and natural: a General Election with the highest recorded voter turnout since 1990; reckoning with the country’s history of racism; hurricane Zeta (only the most recent in a record-setting year of tropical storms); wildfires in the West and Mountain states; COVID-19. If ever literature were needed as a means of creating, representing, and understanding provocation, that time is now.

We at SAMLA are proud of our commitment to representation, and we are eager to welcome and support scholars at all stages of their careers. This virtual conference allows SAMLA to maintain its national and international reach during this time of limited travel. Scholars from across not only the USA but also North America, Central and South America, Europe, Japan, Australia, the Indian subcontinent and the Middle East will be presenting this year. SAMLA is delighted to be an intellectual home to faculty members at all levels, independent scholars, postdoctoral fellows, graduate students, and undergraduate students. SAMLA 92 proudly continues its Undergraduate Research Forum initiative, welcoming nearly fifty student researchers from institutions such as Agnes Scott College, Brenau University, Dalton State College, the Harriet L. Wilkes Honors College at Florida Atlantic University, Jackson State University, Jacksonville University, Queens University of Charlotte, Spelman College, and University of Baltimore. The conference’s virtual format allowed the Executive Committee to use the Harper Fund to provide membership and conference registration for five graduate students in lieu of the one or two travel grants typically awarded each year.

I invite SAMLA members to embrace the opportunities that the Accelevents platform allows us. It re-creates the traditional conference sessions: presenters give their papers alongside fellow panelists, they can show slides and interact with each other; the moderator will read questions that attendees have submitted via the chat function. You can visit the virtual book exhibit and chat with press representatives. While I sorely miss the opportunity to see old friends and make new contacts, Accelevents even allows for a virtual chat over virtual coffee, enabling those often serendipitous meetings by allowing...
Welcome and Conference Information

Attendees to connect in private one-on-one meetings. You will find this opportunity by clicking on “People” on the left-hand sidebar of the Virtual Event Hub. In addition, the platform allows two benefits possible only with the online conference mode: panelists can request a download of their panel from SAMLA for their private use—or use for pedagogical purposes with students. SAMLA will only release these downloads to members of the panel in question with the consent of that panel’s members. This could be a fabulous professionalization tool. And if you can’t decide among sessions, you will be able to access panels you’ve missed through the end of the conference on Sunday. Additionally, we have been able to attach abstracts to the e-program so that you can communicate via email with presenters or via Accelevents on-one virtual meetings.

I must recognize Dr. Elizabeth West’s tremendous contributions to SAMLA during her five-year term as Executive Director. Before she stepped down in June, she steered a course to financial stability and worked diligently alongside R. Barton Palmer and multiple iterations of the Executive Committee to spearhead essential changes to the South Atlantic Review that put it on the path to on-time publication and profitability. I am exceedingly grateful to inherit the results of her excellent governance, and we all wish her the best as she lends her leadership to GSU’s newly formed Center for Studies on Africa and Its Diaspora.

This conference—and the smooth running of SAMLA—would not be possible without Dr. Dan Abitz, who continues into his fourth year as Associate Director. He was instrumental in the decision to shift to the virtual conference—a bold move at a time when many other organizations opted to postpone their annual meetings until 2021. He, plus the SAMLA staff of GSU graduate student interns, have been not only hardworking but also adaptable, foreseeing, creative and problem-solving. They have worked tirelessly to organize this virtual event. My one regret about not meeting in person is that SAMLA members will not be able to see and thank Esther Stuart, Donna Pennington, Shannon Lee, Shari L. Arnold, and Mike Saye, or give them a collective round of applause for making our meeting possible.

This year, for the first time, SAMLA signed on to an MLA statement inspired by the global pandemic and the marches for racial justice following the death of George Floyd. In this statement, we as a group affirmed the value of the humanities in addressing the large questions that we face:

> Consider the spread of COVID-19, global environmental degradation, and the deep divisions around race in this country. Our collective responses to these and other challenges arise from understanding human behavior, the stories and beliefs that guide us, the cultures and values that we build and share, and the visionary aspirations of thinkers past and present. “Where there is no vision,” James Baldwin wrote, “the people perish.”

I am grateful to be part of a community of scholars who can help provide the vision we need to not only survive but thrive.

While I am sorry that we are not meeting in person in Jacksonville, Florida, this year, I hope to see you there in 2022 and in Atlanta in 2021, as well. In the meantime, we at SAMLA look forward to this new conference format and to the cherished intellectual community it enables.

Sincerely,

LeeAnne M. Richardson

ON NARRATOLOGY
7:15 PM

MAIN STAGE
Gerald J. Prince is Professor of Romance Languages, Associate Faculty at the Annenberg School of Communication, and a member of the graduate groups in Linguistics and in Comparative Literature at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is the author of several books (including Métaphysique et technique dans l’œuvre romanesque de Sartre; A Grammar of Stories; Narratology: The Form and Functioning of Narrative; A Dictionary of Narratology; Narrative as Theme; Guide du roman de langue française: 1901-1950; and Guide du roman de langue française: 1951-2000) as well as many articles and reviews in the fields of (narrative) theory and of modern (French) literature.

Translated in more than a dozen languages, member of the editorial or advisory board of over a dozen scholarly journals, and General Editor of the “Stages” series for the University of Nebraska Press, Prince received in 2013 the Wayne C. Booth Lifetime Achievement Award from the International Society for the Study of Narrative. Below are some excerpts from Hilary Dannenberg’s write-up on Prince following his Lifetime Achievement Award:

In terms of ideas, Gerald Prince’s rigorous theorizing of narrative in its many aspects has informed, inspired and encouraged many other scholars of narrative. The following key areas and concepts were invented or developed in his work: the narratee; the disnarrated; narrativity; narrative grammar; scholarship of the French novel; the art of studying narrative through minimal narratives; postcolonial narrative; narrative and gender.

Both in his written work and in his contributions at conferences, therefore, he has a tremendous gift for facilitating thought and discussion in other academics. His own academic work attains a marvelous combination of rigorous academic focus, argumentation, analytical precision and expressive power coupled with his spirit of lightness, humour and wit which often shines through from underneath the academic precision.

The Eudora Welty Review, formerly the Eudora Welty Newsletter, is an annual journal published each spring. The Review publishes scholarly essays, announces new books, and runs regular features including news and notes, textual analyses, and checklists. Previously featured authors include: John Bayne, Stuart Kidd, Michael Kreyling, Noel Polk, Peggy Whitman Prenshaw, Elizabeth Spencer, Lois Welch, and Susan Wood.

EWR Vol. 12 (2020) was guest-edited by Adrienne Akins Warfield and Sarah Gilbreath Ford and sourced from presentations at “‘The Continuous Thread of Revelation,’ Eudora Welty Reconsidered: An International Welty Conference.” It also features an interview with Hunter McKelva Cole about Welty’s Country Churchyards; reviews; practical matters; and the checklist of scholarship.

The deadline for submissions for notes and reviews for EWR Vol. 13 (2021) is December 15, 2020. Please see submission guidelines on our website.

Subscriptions to the Eudora Welty Review are $15 per year in the United States and Canada and $25 outside of North America. Please make all checks out to Georgia State University. To order EWR or to contact the editors, write to:

ADAM PARKES
SECOND VICE PRESIDENT

Adam Parkes is Professor of English at the University of Georgia, where he has taught since 1993, having previously studied at Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge (BA, 1988) and the University of Rochester (PhD, 1993). He is the author of two scholarly monographs published by Oxford University Press: Modernism and the Theater of Censorship (1996), a study of D.H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Radclyffe Hall, and Virginia Woolf in the context of early-twentieth-century obscenity trials, and A Sense of Shock: The Impact of Impressionism on Modern British and Irish Writing (2011), which considers how a discourse of impressions circulated among the writings of late Victorians such as Ruskin and Pater and Moderns such as Conrad and Woolf. His major ongoing research project focuses on representations of aristocracy in British and Irish modernism; initial results of this project have appeared or are due to appear in Aldous Huxley Annual, Etudes Lawrenciennes, and Twentieth-Century Literature. Parkes has also published a brief study of Kazuo Ishiguro in the Continuum Contemporaries series (2001) and articles and essays on such authors as Ford Madox Ford, Ezra Pound, Elizabeth Bowen, and Cormac McCarthy. A new essay on Ishiguro’s novel Never Let Me Go will appear next spring in a special Ishiguro issue of Modern Fiction Studies. As well as a long-serving member of the editorial board of Modern Fiction Studies, Parkes is currently President Elect of the D.H. Lawrence Society of North America; he will be President for 2021-22.

E. NICOLE MEYER
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEMBER

E. Nicole Meyer is Professor of French and Women’s and Gender Studies at Augusta University, having earned her PhD from the University of Pennsylvania. Her current book project is Fractured Families in French and Francophone Autobiography. Her co-edited volumes include Rethinking the French Classroom: New Approaches to Teaching Contemporary French and Francophone Women (Routledge, 2019) and Teaching Diversity and Inclusion: Examples from a French-Speaking Classroom (2021, forthcoming). She publishes on wide array of topics from French and Francophone women’s autobiography to Flaubert; French for Specific Purposes; Service Learning; contemporary French cinema; and 19th-, 20th-, and 21st-century French and Francophone literature. She is Vice-President of the international organization, Women in French, Editor of French, Francophone and Comparative Literatures for the Rocky Mountain Review and Chair of the American Association of Teachers of French National Commission, French for Specific Purposes, as well as a member of the AATF National Standards for French Task force. Her teaching interests include French and Francophone Contemporary Women’s Autobiographies, Representation of the Body in French Literature, French Phonetics. She teaches all levels of French Studies.

Horacio Sierra

Executive Committee Member

Horacio Sierra is an Associate Professor in the Department of Language, Literature, & Cultural Studies at Bowie State University, Maryland’s oldest HBCU. His teaching and research interests include Renaissance studies, Shakespeare, gender/sexuality, popular culture, and Hispanic literature and culture. His scholarly work has been published in Comparative Drama, The Sixteenth-Century Journal, Early Modern Women: An Interdisciplinary Journal, MESTER, Women’s Studies: An Interdisciplinary Journal, The Journal of Florida Literature, CEA Mid-Atlantic Review, and Theatre Journal. His creative writing has been published in The William & Mary Review, Riversedge, Peregrine, Mosaic, and The Journal of Florida Studies. His journalism has been published in The Washington Post, The Baltimore Sun, The Hartford Courant, Hispanic magazine, and The Miami Herald. He has received several research grants including an NEH research grant to work at the Biblioteca Nacional de España in Madrid and an MSI Research Grant to work in the Benson Collection at the University of Texas-Austin. He is an adviser for Sigma Tau Delta and Raíces. He earned his BS in Communication from the University of Miami and his PhD in English from the University of Florida. He splits his time between Miami, Florida, and Washington, DC.
Since its founding in 1935, South Atlantic Review has published research in modern languages and literatures, as well as in associated fields such as film, cultural studies, and rhetoric and composition.
Editor R. Barton Palmer is pleased to welcome submissions of essays of between 6,500 and 8,000 words that are accessible and of broad interest to South Atlantic Review’s diverse readership across the many disciplines that form the South Atlantic Modern Language Association.

Full submission guidelines may be found at samla.memberclicks.net/sar.

Please send submissions and other inquiries to the Managing Editor at SouthAtlanticReview@clemson.edu.
SAMLA's next conference is currently scheduled to be held at the Atlanta Marriott Buckhead Hotel & Conference Center in Atlanta, Georgia, from November 4-6, 2021. The theme for SAMLA 93 will be Social Networks, Social Distances. Session proposals are welcome on this or any topic of scholarly interest to the SAMLA community.

SAMLA Members who wish to propose a Special Session should submit a Call for Papers indicating their session title, chosen topic, and any additional CFP language. Chairs of Regular Sessions or Affiliated Groups may also submit CFPs in the same manner. The CFP submission form will be available on SAMLA’s website (samla.memberclicks.net) beginning on December 4, 2020.

November 2020 to April 2021 – Chairs of Regular Sessions (those so designated by the Program Committee after the presentation of Special Sessions at three consecutive SAMLA conferences) and Affiliated Groups are selected in one of three ways:

1. Those who serve as Secretary in 2020 will become Chair of the 2021 session,
2. If the session does not have a Secretary in 2020, Attendees of the 2020 session will elect a Chair for 2021, or
3. If a Chair seat is vacant at the beginning of the 2021 conference year, SAMLA will post a call for volunteers in the CFP list. All Chairs of Regular Sessions and Affiliated Groups must be approved by SAMLA. Additionally, approval by the Affiliated Group is also required for Chairs wishing to oversee those sessions.

December 2020 to May 2021 – Chairs begin their service by submitting a “Call for Papers (CFP) Submission” form, available on SAMLA’s website beginning December 4, 2020. This form will require the following:

1. Name of Session (applicable to Regular Sessions and Affiliated Groups ONLY),
2. Title of Session (required for all Special Sessions; optional for Regular Sessions or Affiliated Groups),
3. Contact information for Chair(s),
4. Contact information for Secretary (if applicable),
5. Call for Papers (CFP) language or brief summary of completed session if the panel is pre-formed, and
6. Details for panel applicants: requested abstract length, submission deadline, any special requests for submissions (i.e. brief bios, CVs, document format, etc.)

CFPs received by March 5, 2021, will be featured in SAMLA News.
January to May 2021 – The Program Committee will approve session CFPs according to the following guidelines:

- Regular Sessions and Affiliated Groups with approved Chairs automatically receive CFP approval from the Program Committee;
- Special Sessions are reviewed by the Program Committee and require approval before the CFP is published. The SAMLA office will notify all Special Session Chairs when their sessions are approved;
- All approved CFPs are posted to SAMLA’s website. Interested scholars are instructed to email their abstracts directly to Chairs.

February to June 2021 – Chairs will receive abstract submissions from potential Panelists, select a complete panel, and notify Panelists of their acceptance. When selecting Panelists, Chairs are asked to keep in mind these guidelines:

- Each session runs for 75 minutes,
- Traditional panels require two to four Participants, while Roundtable discussions can have up to seven Participants, and
- Each member may present only one scholarly paper per SAMLA conference. The Program Committee may approve requests to serve in additional panels as long as the nature of service in each panel differs significantly. This may include, but is not limited to: serving as both Chair and Panelist in one’s own panel; serving as Chair in one session and Panelist in another session; serving as Panelist both in a traditional panel and on a roundtable discussion.

By June 25, 2021 – Chairs will be required to complete two important tasks:

1. Chairs should submit the “Session/Panel Information” form on SAMLA’s website. When completing this form, Chairs should include the following information:
   - Full names of all Participants as they would like to see them listed in the program,
   - Participants’ institutional affiliations,
   - Participants’ email addresses,
   - Full titles of Participants’ papers,
   - Any audiovisual requirements (SAMLA cannot guarantee A/V requested after the above deadline), and
   - Abstracts from all Participants (to be posted on the website with Member-only access).

2. Chairs must establish or renew their Membership through the current conference year. Final Program Committee approval is contingent upon Chairs being current Members by this date. Failure to process membership by this date will place your session at risk for cancellation.
By August 30, 2021 – The SAMLA office will publish the first draft of the Conference Schedule on the website. Once this schedule draft is posted, all Chairs, Secretaries, and Panelists should preview their information and provide any necessary corrections by email to samla@gsu.edu.

By August 30, 2021 – Chairs should communicate directly with their Panelists to ensure that each processes their Memberships for the current conference year. Participants who have not established or renewed their Membership by this date will be removed from the conference program.

November 4-6, 2021, at SAMLA 93 – Chairs should pick up their Chair Packets at the SAMLA Check-in & Registration Desk. When officiating the session, Chairs are asked to:

- Welcome Attendees to the panel,
- Circulate the provided Attendance Sheet,
- Remind Attendees of the dates and location of the next conference,
- If necessary, select a Chair and Secretary for the next conference,
- Introduce Panelists,
- Monitor paper-reading/presentation time (15-20 minutes each for a traditional panel; less for a roundtable discussion),
- Moderate question & answer period (15 minutes for a traditional panel; more for a roundtable discussion), and
- Return Attendance Sheet according to instructions in the Chair Packet.

SAMLA 93 General Call for Papers

SAMLA will also open a General Call for Papers for SAMLA 93. Interested scholars will be able to submit their abstracts by completing the “General Call for Papers Submission” form, which will be available on the website starting April 1, 2021.

The General Call is designed to create opportunities for scholars whose work does not fit into a posted session’s CFP. Before submitting to the General Call, scholars are urged to review CFPs posted on the SAMLA website from February to May 2021.

The General Call for Papers will close on July 30, 2021. While SAMLA staff will make every effort to place submissions in existing panels and to create new panels devised from General Call submissions, submission to the General Call does not guarantee participation in the conference.
